Any information pertaining to interaction with the website (such as reviews, feedbacks, comments posted) may also be collected. Furthermore, there will be certain information collected automatically through cookies.

SECTION 3 - USE OF COOKIES AND OUR COOKIES POLICY

We may track the IP address of a user’s computer or place a ‘cookie’ in the browser files of a user’s computer to provide automated features to the user.

A standard definition of a cookie can be summarized in a few words. A cookie is a small file that has a tracking identifier that is sent by a hosting server or a website to a browser (such as Chrome, Firefox, Edge). The browser then stores this file. The purpose of storing such a file is that whenever a user visits the same website again the website remembers the user and provides the user experience based on the user’s interest and previous searches. Normally, there are two types of cookies called “Session Cookies” and “Permanent Cookies”. As the name suggests a session cookie remains only in the user’s browser as long as the user is browsing that website and as soon as the user exits from the website cookie is removed. Permanent cookies stay in the browsers until it expires or till the user deletes the cookie itself. Permanent cookies remember login information, previous user search information, checkout, and cart details. It is worth mentioning here that cookies do not have any information that can lead to a person’s identity personally. They are only for the purpose of convenience for both the user and the website.

A cookie also conveys information to the website about how users are interacting with the website such as the page views, the clicks on weblinks, the user’s access to the website, how long a user has stayed on the website, and other similar actions on the website. This allows us to track the usage of the user’s account of our service over a period of time which helps us make our services better for users in the future.

SECTION 10 - PROTECTION OF MINORS

Our website does not knowingly or specifically collect information about children under the age of 13 and we believe that children of any age should get their parents' consent before giving out any personal information. This step has been taken in compliance with the COPPA act.

COPPA means The Children's Online Privacy Protection Act. This act was enacted in 1998 and under this act, all the measurements have been made to protect the information for children, specifically children under 13. The main focus of the COPPA act is to put parents in control of the information which their children may be having access to. If you are under 13, you should never provide us with any personal information, nor should you be using our website and our services.

SECTION 11 - DATA PROTECTION PRACTICES

We use administrative, technical, and physical security measures to help protect your personal information. While we have taken reasonable steps to secure the personal information you provide to us, please be aware that no security measures are perfect or impenetrable, and no method of data transmission can be guaranteed against any interception or type of misuse by unauthorized parties.

SECTION 12 - MODIFICATIONS AND AMENDMENTS IN PRIVACY POLICY

We reserve the right to modify this policy at any time, and for any reason. These changes will appear as an update and will include the date of any changes. Any changes will be deemed valid and effective immediately upon the published update. No specific notice will be given to each individual user, and each user has waived any right to such notice. Users are encouraged to review our website regularly in order to inform themselves of any changes to this policy. As such, users are deemed to be informed of any changes by way of the update notice posted to the website at the time of any change. By continuing to use the website after the time of such published changes to the Privacy Policy, the user is deemed to have accepted changes.
